Racing is one of the most popular forms of entertainment in the world today. However, not all racing is the same and each different type of racing requires specific qualities.

Formula one racing is one of the most competitive sports in the world. Although people think they are good drivers, the racers who take part in formula one take driving to a whole new level. They travel at breakneck speeds, often reaching over 350 kph, driving around courses that are often hard to negotiate. The cars they drive are incredibly expensive and need constant work and repairs.

A formula one driver is usually backed up by a team up to 20 engineers, mechanics and specialists, so formula one driver need to be able to work well with other people and have great interpersonal skills. However, when they are racing they can only rely upon themselves and so they also have to be independent and sure of themselves. Formula one racing , despite all the safety precautions, can also be dangerous because the speed of the cars is so fast and they race so close together .Formula one drivers need to be very courageous and always determined to win.

We also have marathon racing. It was named after a famous battle in marathon. In Ancient, after the battle, a messenger ran 42 km from the battlefield to Athens and this is why the race is the distance it is today. Marathon runners are some of the hardest working athletes in the world. Marathon runners have to work for recognition just as hard as sprinters, and they run for hours, not seconds.

Although marathon runners have personal trainers, they aren't allowed to assist the runners whilst they are as they need to have an extraordinary level of will power, incredible amounts of stamina and tremendous endurance just to keep going over the 42 km. Marathon racing is not for glory-seekers as marathon runners receive less media attention than other athletes such as sprinters, cyclists and swimmers. Marathon runners are often very modest, even though they are completely committed to their event.
